BROKEN AGREEMENTS

Cause Lots of Trouble in the Police and the Law and Chancery Courts of Norfolk.

THE GROOM NOW DECLINES TO MARRY.

Hank - Joe Spratley's Case-The Work of the Grand Jury in the Justice Burroughs had a large and interesting docket in the Police Court yesterday. Some of the charges were serious in their nature and it took His Honor until after the noon hour to dispass of them.

o dispose of them. BROKE THE AGREEMENT.

BROKE THE AGREEMENT.

Maria Taylor, colored, stood before Justice Burroughs charged with abusing her friend, Cornelia Taylor, and otherwise disturbing the public peace. The evidence proved that the cause of the recent violation of the law by Maria grew out of an old trouble between the two and that Jeniousy on the part of the accused caused her to wreck her wrath upon Cornelia. The accused told His Honor how she had become satisfied that her husband was too fond of Cornelia's society and gave a descriptive account of the manner in which she had hauled Cornelia over the coals when she had discovered ner in which she had hauled Cornelia over the coals when she had discovered her husband's guilt. She also told about an agreement entered into by the trio to let the past be forgotten and dwell in peace in the future, and attempted to explain why she had broken the agreement. Her explanation was not satisfactory to His Honor, who thought she should have stood by her contract. He therefore made her pay the costs and dismissed the warrant.

EXPENSIVE DRUNKS.

EXPENSIVE DRUNKS.

Tom Fogarty, white, got on a drunk Wednesday night in company with his friend, James Kinnear, and were appropriating more of Church street to their own use than the law allowed them. They were seen by Officers Hank and Titmus, and taken in charge, Fogarty by Hank and Kinnear by

CROSS-EYED ROB.

If there is anything that will make a sensative cross-eyed man mad, it is to criticize that part of his make-up. Now Robert Anderson, colored, happens to be afflicted that way, and Fred. Johnson, also colored, so far forgot himself as to comment on the beauty of Robert's peepers. This was more than Rob. could stand, so he promptly attacked Fred in true puglistic style. Fred. turned the tables, however, and added a coloring to Robert's sensative point, besides biting his finger, while he came out of the battle unmarked. In the Police Court yesterday Justice Burroughs fined the puglists $1 each urroughs fined the pugilists $1 each

A WOMAN BEATER.

A WOMAN BEATER.

William Robinson, colored, stood before the Police Court yesterday under the cowardly charge of beating a woman. Mary Hawkins, the complainant, proved to His Honor that the man had given her a bad beating without provocation, and further testified that at the time she swore out the warrant against Robinson, he happer of the come along and before she could get the paper in the hands of the High Constable the man snatched it from her and tore it up.

Detective Eastwood then took the matter in hand and at 8 o'clock last night placed the man under arrest. Justice Burroughs this morning fined him $1.75.

JOE SPRATLEY'S CASE.

The case of Joe Spratley, colored, charged with the larceny of a big lot of goods from a colored woman with whom he had been boarding, named Mary A. George, over a year ago, was called in the Police Court yesterday. Mr. Julius T. Saunders represented Mary A. George, over a year ago, was called in the Police Court yesterday. Mr. Julius T. Saunders represented Spratley. The evidence proved that the goods were found in the man's trunk and he was unable to give a reasonable explanation of the goods being there. Justice Burroughs was at first inclined to send the man to jail, but his counsel argued that the fact that the accused had been absent from the house for a long time, while his trunk was still there, and that other parties had access to the room during his absence, raised a doubt as to who put the goods in the trunk; that the offense was a crime, and that the case had not been proven to that degree of certainty necessary to convict under the criminal law. His Honor concluded to let the man off with a fine of $5 and costs.

THAT MARRIAGE OURSTION.

THAT MARRIAGE QUESTION.

THAT MARRIAGE QUESTION.

The liveliest case called was that of Pettis Eppes, charged with betraying Pocahontas Young, under promise of marriage. It will be remembered that this is the case in which Colonel George Hauveur, of Boston, Mass., wishes to form day and evening classes for ladies and gentlemen. Terms moderate. Present address, 227 Freemason street.

Police Patrol.

Have you seen the Genuine Patrol Bhoe that we sell for $2, made with B solid soles? There is no better ones made. We can furnish you with testiconials from those that have worn then, embracing policemen, butchers, sircksmiths, carpenters, oystermen, sartenders, farmers and all kinds of aborers. Come and see them at HELLER'S ONE-PRICE SHOE STORE, 46 Bank St., Opp.Courthouse.

Dr. WECZ, 12 Main St.

Mr. Tilton, whom Eppes' father had retained to defend the boy, decidedly objected to the Colonel acting as best man and mutual consulting attorney, and asked the Colonel to define his position; whether he was counsel for the boy, the girl, or neither; and the Colonel said, "for both and for neither." Then the Colonel asked for a continuance to get the girl's material witness present.

Mr. Tilton said the witness wanted was not material, and questioned the

Mr. Tilton said the witness wanted was not material, and questioned the Colonel's right to ask for the continuance. Then the Colonel washed his hands of the whole matter, and engaged Attorney Julius T. Saunders to represent the girl. He called for a continuance, and Mr. Tilton was hungry, and wished to get through at once. Mr. Saunders evidently preferred Tilton full to Tilton empty, and at last succeeded in getting the case over till to-morrow.

succeeded in getting the case over till to-morrow.

Mr. Tilton said that he would prove that the poor deluded boy had been over-persuaded in the matter; that the woman was common and that there was no case. Pocahontas admitted that she wanted Pettis locked up awhile longer. He was bailed by his father in $100.

SENT ON TO THE GRAND JURY.

Sydney Parker, colored, was arraigned in the Police Court yesterday on the charge of stealing a bicycle valued at $140 from the residence of Mr. S. Q. Collins, and with stealing clothing valued at $20 from the store of Mrs. Cohn. on Church street, and after hearing the evidence, Justice Burroughs sent him on to the grand Jury.

MINOR OFFENSES.

MUSIC'S DEVELOPMENT

A "Centre" of the American University Extension Society Organized in Norfolk.

COURSE OF LECTURES ARRANGED.

The Development of Music" to B Treated of by Mr. T. W. Surrette. in Six Hustrated Lectures, with the Assistance of Norfolk Talent-Musical People Interested.

At the residence of Mrs. W. T. Brooke, at Freemason and Boush streets, a "Centre" of the American University Extension Society of Philwas last night organized, and elected:

Mrs. W. T. Brooke, president: George Fodd, treasurer; Miss Ethel Neely, see retary, and Messrs. Newton Fitz, J. J. Miller, J. Iredell Jenkins, Mrs. L. P. Roberts, Mrs. Osborne and Miss Moore, Executive Committee.

The lectures to be given will be filustrations of the lectures will be in charge of Professors Fitz, Miller and Borges, each of them having the management of two lectures.

The introduction of University Extension courses into a community marks an important epoch in its educational history. There was once a time when any progressive community which wished to place the opportunity for higher education within reach of more than the very limited number of its effizens whose means permitted a long tresidence away from home, found no other way of doing so than by the endowment of a college in its own midst. At present such a community organizes a University Extention local center.

It finds that the universities are willing to send out competent lecturers in any subject recognized as a regular college discipline. It finds that it can secure a sequence of ceurses in the same subject, or, if it prefers it, can have a taste of various subjects by selecting a course, say, in natural science, then one in history or political science, then one of higher education by non-resident lecturers has been inaugurated and that it has been already theroughly tested; that it provides for examination and certifies results; and that for the Individual student it involves but very little expense.

Mr. Surette, who is to deliver these lectures, is an American by birth and oducation. He was born in Concord. Mass., a-town famous the world over as the home of Emerson, Hawthorne, Thorau, and Louisa Aleott. His musical studies were carried on under some of Boston's beet teachers and at the Harvard under Profesor Pai of musical training, which consists in being able to play some pretty piece just as their teacher tells then to play it. It was possible to carry out these ideas in New England and it is now a common thing in Boston for people to get together before the weekly symphony concert and study the symphony or concerto under the guidance of some theory teacher.

University Extension offered Mr. Surette a place on its staff of lecturers, and he accepted it as the best means of getting his ideas before a large number of people.

ber of people.

In addition to these interests Mr. Surette has kept on composing, usually doing most of it in the summer. His last work of any pretensions was an American romantic opera, "Cascabel," which he has just finished getting ready for the stage. This was preceded by a ballad for soil, chorus, and orchestra, called "The Eve of St. Agnes," founded on Keats' well-known poems.

oems. Mr. Surette's lectures include, in ad Mr. Surette's lectures include, in addition to the course to be given in this city, one on Wagner's "Parsifal," illustrated by stereoptican and by playing from the score; one on church music, and one on the growth of the sonata.
